

Structured Cabling

Implementing a fully functional cabling infrastructure is a complex undertaking, requiring precise planning and project management.

We work alongside our customers offering technical expertise and a professional service to ensure successful completion.

With extensive experience managing networks, assistTec can design and install the latest technology that will meet your current and future needs.

We can advise at the planning stage of a new building on where to site communications cabinets and the layout of servers and server rooms, based on maximum cable lengths and physical restrictions.

We also provide upgrades for existing networks. If you already have a fully operational office using PCs, we can illustrate to you how installing a network could boost your productivity, allowing shared access to back-up servers, printers, and access to the internet.
